NORWAY VICINITY

Leo Burnett employed as a clothes presser for a concern in Augusta came to Norway Friday, and went to camp, Saturday, with Company C.

F. L. Gleason of 398 Chandler Street, Worcester, Mass., is visiting his cousin, Mrs. Elizabeth R. Stone, and Philip F. Stone. Forty-five years ago he was a printer in Norway and employed by J. A. Sims & Son on The New Religion. This is his first visit here since that time and there are many changes to attract his attention. Mr. Gleason is stoneman in the Commonwealth Press establishment at Worcester, having followed his trade for fifty years.

Eugene C. Libby is night watchman at the Norway Turning Co., taking Joshua Yeaton's place. Mr. Libby's health has been impaired for a year or more, but he is feeling better, although not in condition for heavy work.

Rev. and Mrs. Olin B. Tracy and Dr. Tracy started the first of the week for the August vacation. Most of the time will be passed at Mrs. Tracy's home at New Hampton, N. H. They expect to attend the Cohosseecontee Conference of Congregational Young People from August 21 to 28, as Rev. Olin Tracy is dean of the school.

Thomas Smiley and Mrs. Smiley, with Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Smiley of Philadelphia, were guests, on Monday, at The Laboratory.

Mrs. Farley C. May has been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. William Holman at Lewiston.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Gilbert and daughter, Alice, are spending a few weeks at Mrs. Gilbert's sister's Mrs. G. W. Hobbs'. Albert C. Hobbs, wife and daughter, Janet, spent Sunday at his mother's, Mrs. G. W. Hobbs'.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Nevers were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Fisher, at Freeport. They motored to Frying Point, dug clams and Mr. Fisher prepared one of his best shore dinners. Wolf's Neck was an interesting place and many spots in the historical town were visited. A stop was made at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Bean, formerly of Norway, and the party met Frank Kimball, a former Norway druggist. It was a delightful trip for the host and hostess are royal entertainers and familiar with the interesting spots in that town.

Dr. Charles Godfrey of Bridgeport, Conn., is expected next week for his annual vacation in his camp at the lake.

Frank Callahan and family returned to Lynn, Mass., Thursday, after enjoying two weeks at the Callahan camp

Miss Perkins of Boston is a guest of Miss James at her cottage on Hathaway Island.

A sidewalk is being laid on Pleasant street from Maple street corner to the foot of the hill. The base is small stones with a top surface of tar.

Professor Elmer G. Hooper, of New York State College, was the speaker at the Norway-Paris Kiwanis Club luncheon at the Congregaitonal Church today (Thursday). He spoke on some of the problems confronting the engineer who deals with water storage and power. Luncheon was served by the church Circle.

The fox trot "Someone is Crying for You" composed by Lyman S. Herrick of Norway, is being featured by Shaw's Orchestra at the dances.

Miss Hazel Bicknell has returned from a business and pleasure trip in Boston.

Company C, 103 Infantry, assembled at the armory, Friday, and went into camp that night on the Cleasby field near the Grand Trunk station at South Paris. The company boarded the early train Saturday, for Augusta, where they will have a part in the muster for ten days.

Percival E. Hathaway of Chicago called on friends in town while visiting his father, T. F. Hathaway, at South Paris.

The four Rouse sisters who entertained at Chautauqua, Friday, attended the union services in the tent, Sunday night. They were playing in an adjoining town and came back to visit the Ulrics.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morrell of Lewiston and two friends were in Norway, Sunday, and attended the morning service at the Congregational Church. Mr. and Mrs. Morrill moved from Norway last spring, leaving many acquaintances to regret their departure.

F. W. Sanborn and Walter C. Smith are at Flint's Camp in Magalloway on a fishing trip.

Dr. Lester Horne of Fairhaven Mass., is with his family at H. D. Smith's. His mother, Mrs. Julia Horne, of Portland, came to Norway with him for a short visit.

Miss Margaret Welch, R. N., is caring for A. W. Walker at South Paris.

Miss Marion Welch has returned home from a three weeks' visit with her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Welch, at Ithica, N. Y.

Mrs. C. E. Twitchell is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Archie Goodwin and family.

Madam N. T. Dalton, a teacher of vocal music, in New York City, has rooms at Mrs. John Fletcher's until she can secure the Stuart camp at Lake Pennesseewassee for August. Mr. Dalton will arrive this week for the vacation from which they anticipate much pleasure.

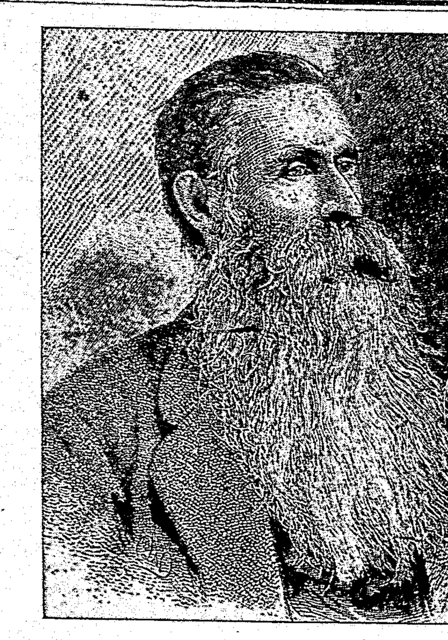

Miss Lola D. Smith is spending the week with Mrs. Walter C. Smith and family.

Mrs. Freeland E. Adams of Grand View Farm, Northwest Norway, is entertaining her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. E. Edwin Ernst, of Oakland, Calif., also her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. Varley and niece, Miss Florence McBride and Laurence Barrett of Utica, New York.

Dr. Fisher of The American Museum of Natural History, New York City, was a guest of Dr. and Mrs. Stephens, at The Laboratory, on Sunday.

MUTT AND JEFF

Mutt and Jeff in the flesh will be the next attraction at the Norway Opera House, Saturday, August 7. This announcemnet should more than please those theatre goers who know these universally popular favorites and dote on their wholesome antics, frivolities and adventures. For the occasion, as expected, Mutt and Jeff will be surrounded by a bevy of entrancing and pretty young women, a carload of scenery and other original features. Their medium of gayety and joy is a typical comedy with music in two acts and five periods supplying an entertainment calculated to please any audience cut for a good time. The book of the new offering is by John P. Mulgrew, a writer of many stage successes, with melodies by Leo Edwards.

CORNELIUS T. RICHARDSON
Indian Rock Patriarch Caretaker of Earlier Days.

Cornelius T. Richardson was a native of Rangeley, Maine, and caretaker of the Oquossoc Anglers' Association for many years. He was a favorite with all. A fine portrait of him with flowing beard and favorite cat adorns the walls of the big camp of the present day and was taken when he was 85, a few years before his death.

Legion Building Dedicated

After three years and more of disappointments and sacrifices, William H. Stone Post, American Legion, and the Woman's Auxiliary dedicated the memorial building, Wednesday, with an informal reception in the afternoon and formal dedicatory exercises in the evening. A number of the prominent officials of the State organization were present and assisted the local committees to make the affair a success.

The reception was in charge of the Auxiliary and commenced at two o'clock, the past presidents were the hostesses. Mrs. Elizabeth Manning, Mrs. Nettie Nevers, Mrs. Hazel Conary and Mrs. Rachel Brown. Light refreshments were served during the hours of inspection.

The evening exercises commenced at 8 o'clock under the direction of the hostesses, who are charter members of the Auxiliary, living in town. These were Mrs. Florence Bradbury, Mrs. Elizabeth Manning, Mrs. Hazel Conary, Mrs. Nettie Nevers, Mrs. Sadie Lapham, Mrs. Mildred Nevers, Mrs. Marguerite Dyer, Mrs. Gertrude Hosmer, Mrs. Henrietta Chick, Mrs. Louisa Knight, Miss Harriet Knight, Mrs. Fonti Brown, Mrs. Bella Fletcher, Mrs. Ida Gurney, Mrs. Mary E. Holt, Mrs. Annie Prince, Mrs. Elizabeth Parrin, Miss Elizabeth Klain, Miss Dorothy Truman, Mrs. Almeda Truman, Mrs. Bertha Young Mrs. Ida Gammon, Miss Blanche Lafrance.

Some 500 people crowded the auditorium and the veranda in the evening. The stage was tastefully decorated with ferns and cut flowers, with the National and Post flag in their appropriate places. Maurice E. Prince was chairman and introduced the speakers. The exercises began at 8 o'clock with the dedication prayer read by Laurence Denison. Speakers of the evening were Hon. B. G. McIntire of Norway, Gen. Albert Greenlaw of Augusta Albert Beliveau, Rumford Past Department Commander; James Boyle, Waterville, State Adjutant; Mrs. Alton Thompson, South Portland, Department President; Mrs. Grace Sthen, Woodfords, Department Secretary, and Mrs. Hazel Conary, Norway, Past Department President.

Guests were present from the Posts at Rumford, South Paris, Oxford, and other towns, together with a delegation from Camp Keyes, Augusta. Dr. A. Leon Sikkenga, now of England, received particular mention as suggesting a memorial building.

Guides were provided for a tour of inspection and refreshments were served. Dancing closed the exercises.

The building is located near the corner of Paris Street on a lot presented by Eugene N. Swett. Construction is of wood reinforced with steel girders and has a large cement basement and a wide porch with cement floor on the Main street side. A nicely graded lawn adds much to the attractive surroundings.

On the first floor is an auditorium which will seat 350 persons, there is a large stage with a dressing room, ladies' rest and other room for a canteen and tourist information bureau.

The basement contains a club room with a fireplace of field stones set in black cement, and white quartz. A roll top oak desk, presented by the late H. Walter Brown has a bit of history. This was the property of Mr. Brown's father when the Novelty Turning Co. came into existence at Fitchburg, Mass., some thirty-six years ago. There is a pool table and equipment for other games. The Legion business will be transacted in this place and open at all hours for general assembly. A well equipped dining hall will seat 150 people and is handy to the kitchen, where everything can be done electrically by the latest devices. There is a tank heated by electricity and three heaters for warming food, boiling coffee, preparing stews and the like. A slate sink provided with hot and cold water is one of the many conveniences. Beyond the dining room are the coat rooms and lavatories.

The building is heated by steam from a Mills boiler located in a cement fire room beyond the kitchen. The light fixtures are an antique pattern of valley forge iron, hand hammered. All floors are selected hardwood lumber, the strips being two inches wide and two feet long and inlaid. The finish is hard pine done in the natural wood, while the plaster walls are tinted in neutral colors to blend with the finish. The total cost of the building is $15,000 and a comparatively small debt remains. To wipe this out, a canteen will be open to the public and the auditorium and kitchen can be secured for socials, dances or suppers. Napoleon "Mike King" Roy will be in charge of this department during the summer.

Local firms have done much by the way of discounts to make it easy for the boys and the town was generous at the March meeting by raising $5,000 for the memorial building. Much of the labor has been given by the legionaires and friends, but the auxiliary members deserve much credit, for their never-give-up activities during the struggle.

It has been a tremendous battle against odds, but the splendid building is an assett to Norway and a fitting memorial to the boys not here in the flesh to enjoy the victory.

The horse shoe pitchers won a victory at Webb' Mills, Saturday afternoon and go to Crystal Lake next Saturday as guests of L. L. Bean of Freeport at his cottage. This will be a State Tournament with the best teams competing. Phil Decoteau is manager of the local and expect to make a good showing with a few victories.

Baseball

PINE TREE LEAGUE

Games Saturday, July 31, are West Paris at Oxford; Mechanic Falls at Norway; Turner at South Paris.

On Saturday Mechanic Falls edged out a victory at South Paris by squeezing a run in the ninth, winning, 4-3. Mechanic Falls scored 3 in the fourth and were blanked until the last session. So. Paris made two crossings in the second and one in the third, beyond that there was nothing doing at the plate.

At West Paris, Norway has the locals 5-2 when the shower closed the battle. Norway hit Benson freely and put up a good fielding game. McCarthy was tapped but had air tight support. At Turner, Oxford failed to make a crossing and went into a whitewash to the score of 5-0.

GOOD MATINEE RACES

Three races entertained a good sized crowd at the fair grounds, Saturday afternoon. There were large fields and some low marks registered, in fact this was the best racing card thus far put out by the promoters. Summary:

2:16 MIXED

Luke Bell, Fox	1	1	1
Eva Tango, Smith	2	2	2
Caduceus the Second, Sturgis	5	3	3
Madam Mack, Heald	3	5	4

Marion M. won the cup given by Kimball Atwood.

More racing is scheduled for next Saturday, July 31, and a merry time is planned. Races start at 1 o'clock standard time.

Four classes will start, as follows: 2:16 and 2:22 mixed 2:30 trot and 2:30 pace. All races are for three heats except the 2:30 pace that will go five heats for the Atwood silver cup. Decision is on the best three in five with matinee records made this season, no bar.

Tom McKown is starter. As usual automobiles are admitted free and take your pick of seats on the grandstand, they are free. A small admission at the gate is collected for expenses.

CO. C IN CIRCUS STUNTS

Russell Sullivan of Norwya is to be C Company's entry as the Charleston Chief in the circus to be staged by the 103rd Regiment Maine Infantry, Sunday, Aug. 1, in conjunction with Old Veterans' Day. Nearly a thousand men are to participate in this, the most pretentious affair ever to be attempted by the regiment. Proceeds are to go towards the erection of a regimental community home in memory of William Glenn of Millinocket, late commander of Company and one of the sincerest friends the regiment ever had.

Other Norway men to take part include Joe Melanson in the clown ensemble and Bernard Kilbrith, Hawaiian guitar chorus. Jimmy Rouse is advertised in the side-show as the human skeleton and if a cage can be built to hold him, he will be exhibited as such. He has been practicing for this event by sneaking in and out through the mesh in the mess hall screens. Wilbur Rogers as the Wild Man is to be one of the features of the performance.

MISS McALLISTER'S BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Grace McAllister had a birthday party at her home one day recently, from 3 to 5 in the afternoon. All enjoyed the games that caused much sport. In the game of hidden flowers, Miss Ruth Blood won the first prize and Miss Irene Nevers the consolation. The first prize in the flag game went to Miss Mary Hill and the consolation gift was passed to her sister, Miss Margaret Hill. Dainty refreshments were served.

Those present were Mary Hill, Margaret Hill, Constance Smith, Melverda Robbins, Ruth Blood, Irene Nevers, Doris Ledger and Margaret McAllister.

Mrs. Esther Anderson was soloist at services in West Sumner last Sunday, held by Rev. C. G. Miller of South Paris.

Miss Susie E. Jewell of Springfield, Mass. has arrived for the summer and is with Mrs. A. W. Whitehouse, 11 Greenleaf Ave. This will be Miss Jewell's thirty-third summer in Norway.

The bank building is growing fast with a large crew of masons laying the brick. Some evening work with the mixer is keeping material ahead of the crew so there are no waits.

Some Augusta notables were in town last week. Dr. Augustus Thomas, Deputy Commissioner Packard, State Librarian Dunnick and B. J. Wohlfarth were luncheon guests of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Stephens, at The Laboratory, Norway Lake.

George Lord is in town this week coaching the Norway ball team. He expects to take charge of the outfit during the next four weeks and may appear in uniform as a player.

Miss Estella Charland of the Ideal Beauty Parlor of Lewiston will have charge of the Beauty Parlor which is soon to open in the Seavey store next to Rex Theatre. Miss Charland is now located at Miss Hazel E. Bicknell's until the store is ready for occupancy.

Radcliffe Chautauqua

Despite the comparatively small attendance at the entertainments on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, therefore a large deficit, it is probable Radcliffe Chautauqua will be held here next year. Everything worked against the success of the enterprise, extreme heat, haying amusements, lodge gatherings and a downpour of rain before the closing entertainment. Many supporters of Chautauqua were visiting or at their camps, which will account for a part of the shrinkage.

The Radcliffe talent was well received and the quality of the program was entirely satisfactory, equal in every way to any previous Chautauqua performances. The impression that the Radcliffe enterprise is low grade because some of the smaller towns have the pleasure of the brown tent, has been exploded. The "you must show me" attitude held by many this year may be one of the reasons for the general slump, but the fact has been demonstrated that Radcliffe is all right and presents some of the best material in the business.

The Porter Vochestral Party opened the program Thursday afternoon. There are four people who play a variety of instruments and render selections not beyond an average audience. The company continued their success into the evening and were well received. W. T. A. Webb was the lecturer for the day. He hails from Florida and has been secretary of the chamber of commerce in one of the towns. "Utility Corners" was his subject in the afternoon and in the evening he presented "The Thinker."

On Friday afternoon the All-Sisters Quartet opened the program and also made a decided hit in the evening. The young ladies are known as the Rouse sisters and are natives of the middle west. They sang, played on saxophones and gave pianologues. Their act was attractively costumed and well done. They demonstrated the saxophone is not exclusively a jazz machine, but for quartet work may be one of the sweetest instruments. One of their pleasing numbers was a playlet, entitled "A Child in the House," being a satire on some modern homes where the children are like Topsy, "they just grow," while the mother enjoys ethical culture at the club.

Dean W. J. Lhamon was the speaker, Friday. In the afternoon he presented "Prodigal America." In the evening "The Craftsman" was his subject in which he pointed out that the real craftsman has a soul in his work and does things right. The community, state nation and the world never needed real craftsmen as now, to build a structure enduring for all time.

The most popular entertainment in the course was Saturday, when in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Ulric as the Ulric Magical Company, performed slight of hand stunts which were indeed mystifying. Miss Margaret McOscar gave several selections on the piano accordian and Dr. Frank K. Dunn delivered his lecture on "The Fireside."

A heavy shower before the evening performance soaked everything about the tent and kept many away on the banner night. Dr. Dunn lectured for some forty-five minutes, his subject was "The Dreamer." In spite of the flooded conditions, he made all forget damp chairs and raindrops by a steady flow of wit, featuring negro dialect. Dr. Dunn is pastor of a large church in Mississippi and entirely at home in the presentation of negro life in the south. At the close of his part for the evening he announced the magical performance could not be given at that time for much of the paraphernalia was wet. This was a disappointment for it must be admitted that a dancing skeleton and black art are strong attractions for the masses.

In view of the unavoidable collapse, the chautauqua was carried forward to Sunday evening when the tent was open to the public for a union service.

The meeting was free, naturally the tent was practically filled. Rev. N. R. Pearson of the Norway Methodist Church offered the opening prayer and Dr. Dunn delivered a sermon, using for a subject three important words of Jesus, namely, "Come, Tarry, Go." The sermon was the evangelistic kind, bristling with humor and stories from personal experiences of the pastor during his work in the south. A strong appeal was made to accept Christ, stay with Him and preach the gosnel in word and act every day.

The remainder of the service was given over to the Ulrics with piano-accordian selections interspersed. As magicians, the Ulrics are clever with a good stock of tricks skillfully presented. Their first part was devoted to the general run of "now you see it and now you don't" also a good line of "you don't see it and now you do." The second part was a seance similar to that performed by fraudulent mediums. Mr. Ulric explained his purpose was not to ridicule Spiritualism in their search after truth, but to demonstrate how fraud is practiced by many disguised as spiritualists. Many strange things happened in a dark cabinet, objects floated about, tambourines were shaken by unseen hands and hurled upon the stage, and other "spiritual" manifestations known some years ago as "black art." The most creepy illusion was a life-sized skeleton that danced and floated piecemeal into a tomb.

A business session was held before the meeting closed. Eugene N. Swett, who had been president of the Norway-South Faris Associaton the past ten years, resgned. No action was taken in the matter. Remarks were made by Albert D. Park, Rev. N. R. Pearson and others, relative to the deficit and plans for continuing chautauqua. The deficit of some $400 had to be cared for by a note and the manager Miss Mary Louise Self, had received the Radcliffe guarantee for 1926. A new contract with sixteen names was pending and it is probable will become active. Mr. Park suggested at least fifty names should be secured, and he was confident the strength of the Radcliffe programs would convince the people that the towns can ill afford to lose chautauqua. A number signed the contract at the close of the meeting.

Chief Justice Scott Wilson of Portland was at the court house Friday and Saturday to attend a number of hearings. The hearing on the Oxford matter pertaining to the town raising money called out a crowd of citizens. A temporary injunction had been granted on petition of Frank L. Wilson and others, and the hearing was to make it permanent. The matter came about when the town voted to raise money for a new schoolhouse, the sum was opposed on the ground of debt limit. Alton C. Wheeler represented the petitioners and Walter L. Gray was counsel for the town, but the case was in charge of of Albert J. Stearns for the injunction hearing.

Mayor Ernest L. McLean, democratic candidate for Governor, will be in Norway Friday evening, July 30. The Democratic Town Committee will meet at Beals Tavern at 8 p. m., and all Democrats are urged to call and meet Mr. McLean.

Mrs. William H. Brownson, who has been the guest of Mrs. Elon L. Brown, has returned to her home in Portland.

Norway Church Items

Universalist

Miss Marguerite G. Pearman returned Wednesday, after spending her vacation in England. Sunday, August 1, Miss Pearman will conduct the morning service. The title of her sermon is "Work."

The Ladies' Circle will hold no regular meetings during August and September.

Methodist

Sunday morning services will be held at 10:45 with sermon by the pastor, Rev. N. R. Pearson, Sunday school at 12; Epworth League at 6:45 and evening meeting at 7:30.

On Wednesday, Aug. 4, the Ladies' Aid will hold a White Elephant Sale at Community Hall at 2:30. This is Dollar Day and left-over articles, consisting of aprons, fancy work, etc., will be sold at ten per cent. discount. In the evening each lady will tell how she earned her dollar; there will be a playlet in charge of Miss Ella Clark and refreshments will be served. There will be no charge for admission, but a silver collection will be taken.

Christ Church

St. Mary's Guild will hold a baked bean, brown, white and oatmeal bread sale at the Fletcher store, Saturday, July 31, commencing at 4 p. m.

A meeting of St. Mary's Guild will be held with Mrs. Maggie Dyer, Friday evening, July 30. There will be work for the fair.

SPECIAL STARS TO BE SEEN

Of the few good nights for seeing at this season of the year (dog days) you may observe almost directly overhead at ten o'clock, P. M., a bright star, Vega, in the constellation of Lyra. Vega, with two other fainter stars, forms a small triangle. If your eyes are good you will see of the faint ones the most northern of the triangle, is a double. It is a good test for the eye to separate them, but with an opera glass it is easily done.

At the east of Vega lies a much larger figure, the Northern Cross in Cygnus, the swan.

The standard of the cross lies quite horizontal with Deneb, a bright star at the head, another bright star, called Sadr. is where the cross-bar crosses the standard. Two other bright stars, one east, one west, makes the cross-bar. Two or three faint stars in line with Deneb and Sadr makes the standard of the cross and at the southern point is a third magnitude star. With optical aid may be seen at the foot of the cross, a double star, one of a beautiful sapphire blue and the other a golden yellow. "61" Cygnus, one of the nearest stars, was the first to be measured and is 10.4 light years distant (light year a little less than six billions of miles).

The "Coal Sack" is a dark gap in the milky-way. This region is perhaps richer than any similar region in the heavens. Herschel counted 331,000 stars in an area of only 5 degrees. Another bright star is flanked on each side with two other fainter stars. Northeast from Vega is a group of bright stars W shaped, called Cassiopeia.

When the moon is not shining, the Milky-Way or Galaxy may be seen trailing through Cassiopeia, then through Cygnus and continuing across the sky, overhead, into the Southwest and to the horizon.

VERANDA CLUB NOTES

Veranda Club met with Mrs. Maggie Libby, Thursday evening, July 17, with a large attendance. It was voted at this meeting to hold the Children's Picnic at the home of the president, Miss Clara Ames, Thursday afternoon, July 22. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Virgalyn Murdock, Thursday evening, August 5, Mrs. Helen Canwell of Auburn, hostess.

The Children's Picnic was held at the home of Miss Clara Ames, Thursday afternoon, July 22, where eleven members 2 visitors and 25 children were present and enjoyed themselves under the trees. The children enjoyed themselves in their play till five o'clock when they were served to ice cream, cake, sandwiches, cookies and lemonade.

PENNESSEEWASSEE CLUB

The girls of the Pennesseewassee Club held their July meeting at the home of the local leader, Mrs. Gertrude Libby. The usual business meeting was conducted by the President, Charlote Longley after which the members made buttonholes. At the close of the meeting, the girls enjoyed a picnic supper down by the river.

The club will have an all day picnic at Norway Lake Grove on Tuesday, Aug. 3, and an invitation has been extended to the Center Club to meet with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll T. Downes and little son of West Medford, Mass. are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elon L. Brown.

Charles G. Blake arrived home, Saturday from Marblehead; Mass., where he has been receiving medical treatment at the Devereaux Mansion for a year or more. His strength permitted him to make the automobile trip without a stop and he is glad to get back home with his friends.

Philip Bradeen of Wilton spent the week-end at his home here.

Next week will appear an account of the trip to the Sesqui Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia by Miss Hallie Mckeen and Clayton White. Each have kindly written us a story for publication. Watch for it next week.

Thomas W. Austin, who has been night watchman at the W. F. Tubb's Snowshoe factory for the past five years, finished work there, Tuesday.

The "Melliedrama," entertainment at the Universalist Church Wednesday evening was well attended. The program was furnished by Mellie Dunham, Gram, Nate Noble and his family, assisted by others. There was fiddling some dancing and novelty numbers that pleased the spectators.

Mellie Dunham's barn dance at his home was attended by some 300 people, coming from the four corners of Oxford County. The barn was tastefully decorated and the new floor proved just right for contra stepping. Mellie's orchestra funished music and Gram was a delightful hostess.

Pennesseewassee Lodge, K. of P., has accepted an invitation to visit Sudbury Lodge at Bethel, Tuesday night, August 3. Sudbury Lodge will confer the first rank.

Sesqui Centennial half dollars, a $2,50 gold piece and a gold key to the city of Philadelphia are in the window at Hutchins' Jewelry Store. Norway National Bank will secure centennial money for those who desire up to date money.

The party from the Congregational church that climbed Mt. Washington had a wild experience and a good time. The plan to make the ascent through Tuckerman's Ravine was given up as they found here some twelve feet of snow, and dangerous hiking. The night in the Tip Top House was one long to be remembered. A heavy shower passed below the summit with lightning playing above the clouds dangerously near the buildng. There was little sleep during the exhibition.

Mrs. Lydia Wing, well known here, and now with her son at West Sumner, recently entertained a large party of relatives and friends. All carried lunches and enjoyed a picnic. Those in the party were Mrs. Etta Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Davis and daughter, Letha, and Roy White, all of Norway, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bonney Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammond and children, Herman and Thelma, of East Sumner and Mr. and Mrs. Alton Hadley West Sumner.

Mr. and Mrs. George Merrill of Norway and two children, Gerald and Bernice, Mrs. Mabelle Merrill and Mrs. Nellie Damgaard, Mr. and Mrs. Morrison of Bridgton were callers at Freeland E. Adams', Sunday.

Greenleaf-Banghart

Miss Ruth Banghart, daughter of the Rev. CharlesL. Banghart and Mrs. Banghart of Berne, N. Y., became the bride of Harry Lowell Greenleaf of South Paris at the home of the bride's parents, Wednesday.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wilson Worman, assisted by the bride's father and the Rev. Albert Campion of Knox. Miss Pauline E. Baker, of Albany, a fellow teacher of the bride at Hudson, played the wedding march.

The bride wore a gown of pink georgette and net, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and delphinium. Mrs. Harold Banghart of Warren, Pa. was matron of honor, and Mr. Banghart best man. Mrs. Banghart wore a tan georgette gown trimmed with lace to match. Her hat was of brown lace.

The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast atatended by a few friends and relatives.

The bride was graduated from Colby college in 1922. She is a member of the Sigma Kappa sorority. She taught at Bradford, Vt., and later was English and music instructor in the Hudson High school.

Mr. Greenleaf is a graduate of the U. of M., class of 1921, and is a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. He is employed by the Maine State Highway Commission.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenleaf are at the home of T. M. Davis, Briggs Avenue, South Paris.

Reunion of Schoolmates

In spite of the excessive heat a pleasant reunion was held at the home of the Wights on Pine St., Thursday, July 22. This was part of "the gang" who made life merry in the days when they were students of Paris High.

Those who partook of the picnic dinner were Jessie Jackson Andrews of South Woodstock, Nina Felton Steeves and daughters, Florice and Miriam, of Hartland, Laura Willis McKeen and daughter, Ruth, of West Paris; Cora Wight Twitchell and son, Sherman, Merton and Bertha Wight Clifford and their sons Gordon and Ronald, and Mr. and Mrs. John Wight. Several snapshots were taken of the different groups and everyone enjoyed the day.

Mrs. W. S. Chandler and son, Milford, are visiting Mrs. Chandler's brother, Millbury Grant and family, at South Freeport.

The heavy shower Saturday afternoon, raised the water several inches in the river, causing great inconvience to the bridge builders. Water flowed in around the coffer dam, and two steam pumps working Sunday, managed to keep the pit clear where the middle pier is to be set.

Work on the library building has been delayed several days for the want of brick. The part of the building to the top of the windows is nearly finished.

Dollar Day last Saturday was a success with nearly all business places showing an incerease over the special shopping day last year. Decorations were conspicuous in Market Square and toward night a section of the cement road was roped off for dancing in the evening and a platform was erected for the musicians. This entertainment failed to materialize for the heavy shower spoiled the dancing surface and soaked through everything about the place. Business in the stores was brisk during the evening and dancing went merrily on to the I. O. O. F. hall.

Lightning shattered a tree in the rear of the court house during the shower late Saturday afternoon.

There wasn't much room for late comers at Association Hall, Friday night when the Trumbull players presented "Way Down East." The play was enjoyed by all and one of their best efforts.

The contractors are getting ready to lay cement on the road to West Paris. The detour to Paris Hill is over the Hooper Ledge road which is in good condition for automobiles.

AS I SAT AT MY WINDOW SILL

One early summer morning
When all was hushed and still,
I sat before my window,
On top of a wooded hill.

The trees were round about me,
The sun shone over all,
The birds were busy nesting,
I could hear their gentle call.

Then the faintest summer breezes
Came softly sighing by,
And rippled through the branches
And hushed the blackbird's cry.

The leaves began to rustle
And tell each other tales
Of winds, both fierce and mighty
That would turn to regular gales.

How their trunks would writhe and quiver
And their branches toss on high,
How each leaf, both bruised and bleeding,
Would shrink from an angry sky.

Then down would pour the raindrops,
Their wounds and hurts to heal,
While the birds were hushed and silenced
By the thunder's loud appeal.

But on this summer morning
As I sat at my window sill,
The leaves were gently swaying
In the shade of the wooded hill.

And as God's sunshine filtered down,
His blessings to fulfill,
Hushed were the calls of nature,
And all the world was still.

—MRS. DANA E. McALLISTER.

THE FAITHFUL FEW

When the meeting's called to order
And you look around the room
You're sure to see some faces
From out the shadows loom
That are always at the meeting
And stay till it is through;
Those you sure can count on,
The always faithful few.

They fill the vacant offices,
And are always on the spot,
No matter what the weather,
Though it may be awfully hot,
It may be dark and rainy,
But they're the tried and true,
The ones that you rely on,
The always faithful few.

There's a lot of worthy members
Who come when in the mood,
When everything's convenient,
Oh, they do a little good,
They're a factor in the Order
And are necessary, too,
But the ones that never fail us are
The always faithful few.

If it were not for their faithful ones
With shoulder at the wheel
To keep the order moving,
Without a halt or reel,
What would be the fate of order
That have so much to do?
They surely would go under
But for the faithful few.

J. KAZBEK'S IDEA OF THE NORWAY ADVERTISER AND SANBORN

The following letter has come into our possession, written by J. Kazbek, to a man at Ludlow, Mass:

"Dear Dave: Under separate cover I am sending you a recent copy of the Norway (Maine) Advertiser, which, as a Son of New England and an ex-newspaper editor, I am sure you will appreciate.

"You will note the makeup, the type and the general tone of the sheet; see the intensive cultivation of the local field, Oxford County, the general literary flavor of the whole and—the advertising! This man Sanborn may be a sleepy looking cuss, probably is, but from the look of his paper, he must be wide awake part of the day.

Editor Sanborn admires our Senator George H. Moses. He wrote:

"Somehow I like Senator Moses. Can't help it. He is wrong on the League of Nations stuff, but independently right on all else."

"I don't know how he ever got the idea that we should get into the World Court. Will ask him when we meet, and if he can give any rational reason why the U. S. A. should help scrub Europe's floors, or pay for having it done, he will be able to tell me something that no other man has ever been able to do. However, there are a few who feel that way and they must have some reason for it.

"If you come across an extra good weekly paper, please send it to me.

"Mr. Sanborn is a friend of Ed Howe, another old crank, who knows more in a minute than the majority of editors ever learn. Here and there we find one just like that, usually hidden away among the hills, evidence of their knowledge that while man can absorb only a little, he can still be somewhat choice of the quality of what he does absorb.

All good wishes,
J. KAZBECK,
Himself.

Licenses to Drive Motor Cars

Effort is being made in several states where it has been very easy to secure a license to drive an automobile to change the existing laws so that a higher standard of efficiency and fitness for a driver may be secured. It is claimed that the number of automobile accidents could be materially reduced if more attention was paid to licensing drivers.

Maine's law is perhaps one of those which would be severely criticised if a standard of ability to operate a motor vehicle is looked for. Practically all that is required to get a license in this State is to have $2 with which to pay for it. To be sure, certain questions are asked of the applicant, but no proof is required that the inquiries are properly answered.

In a neighboring state where an applicant for a license to operate a motor vehicle is required to pass a rigid examination a woman who had lived in Maine and driven a car for five or six years, applied for an operator's license. She was taken out by the examiner and told to run her car through the streets of the city where she then lived. After some time, the examiner requested her to drive back to the city hall or police station, wherever the licensing bureau was located, where he made out his report. Much to the woman's surprise and indignation, she was told that application for a license to drive would not be granted.

Inquiry brought forth the statement that the applicant did not know the rules of the road. She had taken every street corner by crowding the left hand side and gone around every one of them too fast, so the examiner reported. He declared she was a "careless and reckless" driver. If the drivers of automobiles in Maine were subjected to as strict an examination as this, a considerable number of them would be denied licenses.

Why should there not be an examination of drivers by someone competent to judge whether or not they are fitted to operate motor vehicles? Hundreds of men and women secure licenses every year in Maine who have never driven a car ten miles. If they were examined by anyone this would be very apparent, but as it is, they are permitted to go out upon the highways while totally inexperienced and endanger not only their own limbs and life, but those of other people as well.

There should also be some uniformity with relation to the issuing of drivers' licenses. One standard should not apply in one state and another in a neighboring state. Not all the reckless and inexperienced drivers who run cars over our highways are residents of Maine. Many of them belong in other states where they may or they may not be privileged to drive.

To properly examine applicants for drivers' licenses would prove costly to the State, but is there any reason why the State should not protect its citizens by keeping off the highways people who are not fitted to operate motor cars. Probably a large number of the accidents which occur are directly traceable to bad driving. This is said to be the case in states where the subject has been thoroughly investigated and it is probably the case in Maine also.—Press Herald.

The Modern Health Crusade

Maine leads the United States—with the exception of one state, Iowa—in the number of schools in proportion to population which won national honors for proficiency in the health educational program. The project is known as "The Modern Health Crusade."

This announcement was made by the Maine Public Health Association which works in close co-operation with the State Department of Education in the Maine program of health-habit-forming educational work in the schools of every Maine county. A total of 270 Maine schools won national health pennants in the school year recently closed. This is a gain of 64 pennants over the previous year.

Aroostook County, with 40 pennants, leads the state in total number of pennants won. Cumberland County is second with 32 winners. The greatest gain over the previous year was made in Piscataquis County which won 28 pennants this year as compared with 11 in 1924-25. Kennebec County made the second largest gain with 28 pennants as compared with 13 during the previous year.

"This is a record which should please every citizen of Maine" according to a statement by the Maine Public Health Association, in connection with the announcement. "The honor of second place in the United States is not to be passed over lightly, but when it is remembered that this high standing is recorded by Maine boys and girls in every county who are practicing daily habits which promote health one realizes the great value which will come out of this work during the near future. It means that these boys and girls are taking early steps to protect themselves from preventable sickness. They will grow up into strong and healthier men and women. We have letters from hundreds of school teachers and parents on the great value of this health work in Maine schools. Fewer cases of sickness are reported, fewer schools have been closed through epidemics, a higher grade of school work has been attained because the pupils have been less subject to sickness."

The prize winning schools in Oxford County are as follows:

Buckfield School—Buckfield, Miss Myra W. Turner, Teacher; Dixfield School—Dixfield, Miss Laura E. Kennedy, Teacher; Dixfield School—Dixfield, Mrs. Ina L. Toner, Teacher; South Andover School—South Andover, Miss Louise Akers, Teacher; Frye School—Frye, Miss Mabel Sanborn, Teacher; Byron Center School—Byron, N. Glines, Teacher; Roxbury School—Roxbury, E. Whorff, Teacher; Primary School—West Peru, A. I. DeMerrit, Teacher; Intermediate School—Andover, Miss Helen Damon, Teacher; Grammar School—Andover, Miss F. M. Hodgkin, Teacher; West Peru Grammar School—Dixfield, Miss Margaret McIntyre, Teacher.

PREDICTS NEXT WINTER COLDEST EVER KNOWN AND 1927 SUMMERLESS

Harken, friends, to the assuring weather news furnished by Chicago scientists reading as follows:

Nineteen twenty-seven will be a return of 1816, "the year without a summer," a growing season with marked crop failures throughout the whole northern hemisphere, and it will become necessary for the nations of the world to use their war powers to conserve food and protect their populations from starvation, according to a forecast made by Herbert Janvrin Browne, ocean meteorologist and long range weather forecaster, before 500 students attending the four day session of the college of scientific price forecasting.

"The same weather changes that prevailed 110 years ago are now in evidence," he said. "We will have the severest winter in 1926-27 ever known on the North American continent. America is practically surrounded by cold water and will be by next year."

He bases his forecasts on the changes in the amount of heat given off by the sun and absorbed by the salt waters of the ocean. "It has taken since the beginning of 1922 for the northern Pacific area to exhaust the momentum to drop nearly five years ago.

"Cold air will come into the Canadian northwest and deep into the United states next winter and in 1927 from the Artic and Berring seas. Cold will also come from cold waters which now extend from California to the Hawaiian Islands."

Despite the fact that officials of the United States weather bureau claim that there is no scientific principle known whereby weather can be forecast accurately more than 36 hours in advance, Mr. Browne finds plenty of evidence in the ocean to indicate a "summerless year" in 1927 and predicts a repetition of the year when farmers broke ice at Fort Dearborn to water their horses on July 5, 1816.

He also predicts that within five years Lake Michigan's level will be restored to the mark at which it was before the drainage canal was opened as a result of increased rainfall.

HEALTH ACTIVITIES IN MAINE

Praise from health workers throughout the United States is being accorded the annual report of the Maine Public Health Association in letters received at the offices of the Association.

The report—which is divided into three sections with a total of twenty-one chapters—gives a summary of the work of the Maine PublicHealthAssociation and its affiliated county and local societies throughout the State of Maine. The results accomplished during the past year by the public health nurses employed by the organization, the clinics for crippled children, the tuberculosis clinics, the baby clinics, the dental clinics and the health education work conducted under the auspices of the association in Maine schools, are pronounced by health workers in other states as exceptionally good—especially in view of the small budget with which the association operates.

Among its other activities for the year the M. P. H. A. lists the organization of the Maine Three-Quarter Century Club a statistical study which reveals the progress in fighting preventable diseases in Maine during the past five years and the placing of Maine schools second in the United States in the number of national health pennants earned in proportion to population. Walter D. Thurber, Executive Secretary of the Association, in presenting the deport to the officers and Board of Directors, points out that "if a picture could be drawn of the activities of the association and the local health societies, you would see clouds of distress and unhappiness lifted from hundreds and hundreds of Maine homes. You would see faces, once lined with grief and pain and worry, now brightened by glad smiles. You would see a parade of Maine boys and girls who are now happy and healthy, but who once walked slowly and with listless step. You would see groups of fathers and mothers who once looked toward the future with discouraged eyes, but who now happily realize that their loved ones are not doomed to lives of misery and disease. These are the things which fire the spirit of those who are working—hand to hand—for the prevention of preventable sickness in Maine."

The report also includes the report of the annual audit with cash receipts during the year of $36,361 and expenditures of $36,247.

BRING OPPORTUNITIES TO MAINE

DEVELOP POWER—GET INDUSTRIES

To keep the brain and brawn of the Maine youth in Maine, we must give him opportunity HERE AT HOME.

Two ways are open:

1. Develop Maine's water powers.
2. And bring industries to Maine.

We are concerned mostly with the first for if Maine's water powers ARE developd on a large scale to generate really CHEAP power then industries will follow.

To develop these powers and to take care of the normal growth means an ever increasing amount of money to build dams, power houses, transmission lines, sub stations and equipment.

This is how you can share in the work and secure 6 1-2 per cent net on your money. Invest in the 7 per cent Preferred Stock of Central Maine Power Company that goes into this substantial dividend earning property; property that for the past 20 years has proved itself able to earn 79 consecutive dividends—and always to have a little left over as a surplus.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas our Heavenly Father has seen fit to remove from our midst Sister Maria G. Adams,

Resolved: That Julian Rebekah Lodge, No. 12, has lost a highly esteemed member, one who has lived and worked among us for many years.

Resolved: That we extend to the bereaved daughters and family our most heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved: That we send a copy of these resolutions to the family, record a copy on our records, and send one to the Norway Advertiser for publication.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas the Reaper, whose name is Death, has entered the portals of Round Mountain Grange No. 162 and removed Brother John Jones to the Great Grange above,

Resolved: That while we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who "Doeth all things well," we sincerely mourn for and cherish the memory of our Brother, who has been taken from us, and can but realize that he has passed through that which we all must pass ere we enter "that paradise not made with hands eternal in the Heavens."

Resolved: That we as a grange extend our heartfelt sympathy to the family of our departed Brother, to his wife in her loneliness and to all other relatives who mourn their loss.

Resolved: That this tribute to his memory be placed upon our records, that our Charter be draped for thirty days, that a copy of the resolutions be sent to the wife, and a copy to the Norway Advertiser for publication.

MOTOR CAMPING WITH A FLORIDA BACK GROUND

By Edgar O. Spaulding Himself

Edgar O. Spaulding, Himself, of Springville, New York, a former resident of Harrison, and who, by the way, is spending the summer in Harrison and has opened a photographer's establishment at the Pitts Bros.' store, made his start south from Springville, N. Y.—Editor.

That I am probably a better photographer than writer, I am well aware, but believe I can qualify as knowing something about motor camping, having been on the road some seven months, covering over 5,000 miles, and have pitched our tent in fourteen states. Have slept in a house, in this time, possibly seven or eight times.

Motor camping has not been particularly popular in the east, so many believing it a dog's life and that all who camp are bums.

We have been out in sunshine and in storm, dry and wet both, cold and warm, and in this time not one of us have had a sick day. A cold is practicaly unknown among campers. We sleep the dreamless sleep of the young. Our appetites, never poor, are something wonderful now.

"But what do you do when it rains?" is asked. Rain is not the bug-bear that most people think. Campers do not mind the wet. They are not uncomfortable. A good tent does not leak even after several days of rain. The trouble all is, that when it rains there is nothing, absolutely nothing at all to do. It is for this very reason that most campers, when on the road and it rains, pack up and move to the next stop.

The one perfect tent for the motor-camper is the umbrella tent. They have plenty of head room, are water and mildew proof and can be set up or taken down in ten minutes by one person. The so called auto-tents are no good. They lack head room and are difficult to set up even when there are two in the party to do the work.

Our outfit may be of interest and I give the list below, all of this, strange as it may seem, being carried on the car together with three passengers and the cat.

1 9x9 foot umbrella tent, including poles and stakes.
1 Canvas for covering the car.
1 Kamp Kook Gasoline Stove (large).
1 Kamp Kook Gasoline Stove (small).
1 Oven for same.
1 Gasoline Lantern.
1 Electric light and shade to attach to car.
1 Candle Lamp.
38 pieces Aluminum ware all of which pack into an 8 quart kettle.
1 Folding Cot.
1 Folding Double Bed.
1 Folding Table.
1 Refrigerator Basket.
3 Folding Chairs.
13 Blankets.
1 Pack basket of eatables, can stuff and bacon, etc.
2 Canvas Cases filled with clothes.
3 Cameras.
1 Boy Scout Axe.
1 Trench Spade.
1 Canvas Water Pail.
2 Wash dishes, one canvas and one rubber.
1 1-Gallon Thermos Jug. Many small articles; such as comb, mirror, shaving tools, compass, etc. etc.

This outfit may seem rather large, but there is none of it but what is in use at some time on the trip. In regard to blankets, it is impossible to have too many. If you are to sleep out of doors in comfort, you must have as much bedding under as you have over.

It is advisable to buy all supplies for the day the first chance that you have in the morning for if bought then, you can go on your way and forget it, but if delayed is bound to cause inconvenience and trouble. Many camp grounds do not have a store.

Many things that we think are necessary in the home can be improvised for camp use. For instance—an excellent food chopper is a baking powder can. A milk bottle will do fine for a rolling pin. I have seen a camper take an old warming oven from a kitchen range, found on the dump, and make it into as good a wood heater as one could ask for at a cost of not over ten cents for screws. Another makes an oven for his camp store from an old battery box found in the same place.

It is up to us however to get started on our trip. We had, as many of you of course know, been camping for sometime at Cascade Park. On September thirtieth, we make a start. Ethel, my wife, and Florence and I as well as Fluff, the cat. It had rained the day before and in fact most of the time for many days before, but we pack just the same, figuring that things would dry out sometime.

Our route was via Painted Post and Susquehanna Trail to Gettysburg. The cat had calmed down after expressing his opinion for fifty miles or so and everything was running smooth, when just as we were entering Canisteo, bang, goes a rear tire. This was expected, but not so soon. We put on a new one and keep on. The sky, which had been light, was now black and it soon was raining again, getting colder and colder all the while. At Jasper, N. Y. we felt that we had had enough of it and spent our first and only night in a house for the entire trip.

It was cold the next morning with a frost, but the sun shone. We had intended to stop over at Endicott but on reaching Painted Post, decided, because of the cold, to keep on South. At Lawrence, Pa., the other rear tire gives up. We spend the night at a roadside camp by the river near Lewisburg. Very cold.

Our routine on reaching a camp is quite simple. Picking out a high spot for a location. I proceed to erect the tent, while Ethel unlimbers the stove and goes to work on the supper. By the time I have the tent up and beds made, Ethel has the supper ready. All in less than one hour.

The morning is just revrsxxxxxxxxxJ
The morning is just reversed, I packing what I can while waiting for breakfast. It generally takes longer to pack than to unpack. The reason for this is something I have never been able to study out. Camp routine does not become as tiresome as one would surppose. In the evening, we visit with the other campers, then go to bed and read until sleepy. Our gasoline lantern make the tent as light as day.

Our next stop is at Gettysburg. Some ten miles before reaching there, a front tire blowed out, making one each day so far, and I began to wonder if I would have to buy a new tire every day. As a matter of fact that was about the end of our tire troubles.

At Gettysburg we make our home at Lee Camp located in the yard of General Lee's head-quarters on Cemetary Ridge.

Spent the next day, driving over the Battlefield, visiting the Round Tops, Spangler's Spring, & The New York monuments, etc. A truly wonderful drive and one which I wish everyone could take.

It began to rain again just as we got back, and it made a regular business of it. The natives said it had not rained before in two months. I believe it, it couldn't have.

The sun was out the next morning, so we move on to Washington, where we pitch our tent in the big Tourist Camp at Potomac Park. The cat had caused us to hunt for an hour after packing, but was within a hundred feet of the tent all the time.

Sunday (the next day) more rain. We were getting used to the rain, but began to feel as if we were getting a lot more than a fair share of it.

Washington is too well known for me to try to describe it. We did the things the tourists usually does when in the Capitol City. Spent one day at Mt. Vernon, and also I spent all the time I wanted to for once in my life, at the Smithsonian Institute.

On Friday another storm with little rain but plenty of wind. As night came on the wind increased. Many tents are blown down. Our own came through with only our awning torn loose. Very cold.

It was still blowing in the morning, but not as hard. Felt that we had had enough so move on again. A few miles from Washington sees the end of hard surface roads, then comes gravel or top soil roads, as the case may be, some good, some bad and some indifferent, but on the whole very good.

Passed through Fredericksburg, Va., the home of John Paul Jones, arriving in Richmond in due time. An uneventful drive. The scenery not even interesting.

The camp ground in Richmond is a big one of 40 acres, maintained by the city in Bryan Park and is free. There is a community house of stone with a big fire place and as it was still cold this proved to be very popular.

Here we met again Mr. and Mrs. Neese of Hartford, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Wood of Tucker street, Norway, Me. with whom we had become acquainted at Washington. They had left ahead of us. This was the beginning of our party that was to travel much of the rest of the way together.

We visited the capitol buildings where the Confederate Congress met and also the White House of the Confederacy and monuments to the memory of Confedermany other interesting spots. Many ate Heros as well as George Washington.

Next is Oakdale Camp at South Hill, Va. We reach camp first having passed both Neese and Wood on the road. An uninteresting drive with nothing to see, but small fields of cotton and tobacco, with much desolate looking country in between. Buildings such as there were had a tumble-down appearance that looked far from prosperous. Was much disappointed in Virginia.

South Hill is a small farming town, with a big tobacco ware house. Many negroes on the streets and everywhere which looked strange to us.

More rain in the night and the next morning. Our party was somewhat undecided what to do, but the rain settled it and on we go.

The ride to Durham could not have been very interesting as I can remember nothing at all about it. Probably a repetition of the day before.

Three and one half miles beyond the city is Grove Park where we make camp. Here we meet again Crouse of New York City and Jenkins of Binghamton. They had been in Washington with the rest of us. There were now five outfits in our party. It was voted to stop over a day and rest up, besides Neese wanted to get a new gear put in his car.

No rain in Durham in five months, so 'twas said. This may or may not be true but the rain came soon after we did and I firmly believe that all five months of it come in the next twenty-four hours. Wood was washed out. He had put his tent in the lowest part of the park against the advice of the caretaker and the rest. Voted to stay over still another day.

Durham, N. C. is where the bull comes from that is known to every user of tobacco. Many big tobacco factories and the odor from them is everywhere. A sign on a pole said, the police were there to help and not to hinder, and that every courtesy possible would be extended the tonrist to make his stay pleasant. They seemed to live up to this for we were shown where to park and given directions about the city, with a smile and a politeness that made me think that southern hospitality was no myth, after all. A truly fine city is Durham, N. C.

From Durham, south for 250 miles is a fine wide concrete and asphalt road. Wonderful to drive on, but the country is much too bare to look good to northerners. Practically no grass at all not even in front of houses. Plenty of tall pines however.

Our next stopping place was Salisbury, N. C. which I remember very well, thank you, for two reasons. We were driving up the Main Street directly behind another car, both of us moving very slow I was looking for a grocery store as we had bought no supplies as yet and it was late. Probably I was paying more attention to this than to driving, anyhow, the traffic signal which I did not see changed from green to red, and the car in front stopped dead within a foot. I couldn't stop, I did not have time and banged right into his tire carrier. After things cleared up a little, we moved one side to settle things up. Bent my fender some but the only damage to the other car was a bent tire carrier. I admitted the blame and he produced a garage man who said two dollars would fix it, which being satisfactory to both of us, I paid. In the grocery store later, the clerk said this man was her brother and just a week before had been in another accident, which had cost him a hundred dollars to settle. He might not have been so docile otherwise.

Civitan Camp where we stop is just outside. A good free camp, but noisy with the Main street on one side and the railroad on the other. Even the trains down here have a different whistle than they do up North.

As warm as mid-summer and after supper our party gets together and spend a social evening with stories and much laughter. All the talk is of camp life or roads, or automobiles. We were not all to be together again.

Morning finds all packing but ourselves and we do not pack for we have lost our cat. He was around the tent at 4.30 for we had heard him and now though the rest was leaving, we had to stay because we were minus a cat. I storm around and use some of my best golf language, but of course it does no good. We were unwilling prisoners, but there was nothing to do but wait. I mean that "nothing to do" literally. It was the longest day I ever remember. Coming back to the tent about dark, there was Fluff, sitting in doorway howling for supper. Where he had been for the day, we do not know.

More rain in the night and very wet next morning (Sunday), though it was not raining then. Heavy black clouds filled the sky with a look of more water driving on Sunday, but wishing to catch up with our party and incidently get ahead of the rain, started on.

Crouse had mentioned Chick Springs a drive of some 140 miles. The concrete ended at King' Mountain, there came good gravel and shortly we were in South Carolina. Arriving at Chick Springs Camp, we found not a single camper there. Three came later, but none of them belonging to our party. Found out afterwards that we had passed Neese and Wood at King Mountain, while Crouse was in the next camp ground just two miles ahead, he and his wife not liking Chick Springs. It had somewhat gone to seed though it was reasonably clean. There is a camp store and filling station there that knows good prices and gets them. We paid 25 cents for a quart of milk and 40 cents for a one-half pound of bacon. A large Sanitariam and a big spring is about all there is to this place.

Moving on in the morning we are in a country that appears more like New England than the South we had so far seen. Cotton mills are every where even the smallest of villages having one or two. Many large school buildings are to be seen quite a few brand new and holding five or six hundred scholars. They were frequently 2 or 3 miles from any town with a whole fleet of motor busses in the front yard. Community affairs we presumed, but did not ask.

Spent an hour or two at Greenville which seemed to be a very hustling up to date place and liked it the best of any city we had yet seen. This might be because the sun shone and it was warm.

Crossing the Savannah River over a toll bridge, we come to Hartwell, Ga. This is a small village named for Nancy Hart, the Revolutionary heroine, who alone killed two and captured three British soldiers.

The roads which in S. C. had been gravel with some concrete, were now simply dirt and the soil was of a red color, some times very red. There was also some grass in places whereas in the Carolinas there had been practically none.

Pulled into Athens, Georgia after traversing a forty mile detour that had everybodies' temper worn thin, even the cat's. On top of this our car had a knock that I figured meant at least twenty dollars to take out. After putting up our tent, I tried the motor again, and while listening, an oldish man came up and said, "What's the matter, my friend?" I replied that I didn't know, but could hear it. "Have you a trouble light?" he asked. Assuring him that I had, he says, "I'll be over after supper and we will fix it." He did as promised and in less than an hour had the motor running as nice as ever. Upon my asking him for the bill he replied that I owed him nothing at all. "Was glad to help," he said. Such is the spirit of motor camping.

The camp at Athens is run by Mrs. J. M. Bray and her son. It is a nice, large clean place with dozens of small cottages about eight by ten feet in size scattered about the grounds. You can use your tent or you can have a cottage, the price is the same, twenty-five cents per night. Crouse was there when we arrived and Neese and Wood came in later. They had lost Jenkins on the road somewhere.

We staid here two days making several trips into the city about a mile from the camp grounds. A likeable place with its large cottage and country buildings but seemed rather slow tous when contrasted with other cities that we knew.

Very cold but no rain.

Our next stop is Macon. Roads were reported as being very bad, but we did not find them so. Nothing of much interest happened. Gas line plugged up and I picked up a tack in a brand new tire, but this is a mere detail to the tin canner.

The camp ground at Macon is right in the city, being part of the fair ground fenced off from the rest and wonders of wonders the ground was covered with grass. There had been no grass in any camp ground since leaving Richmond.

The Georgia State Fair being on, the caretaker informs us that our twenty-five cent camp fee included admission to the fair for the whole party in each outfit. One Ford right near us held Pa and Ma and ten children. Admission to the fair being fifty cents per, you can see that they got their money's worth.

The police department tied a tag on our car reading as follows:

"As our guests in Macon, you may park anywhere you wish for as long as you wish (except in front of hydrants and alleys), and the police department will not trouble you."

Signed
"Chief of Police"

Taking them up on this, I parked over three hours in a one hour zone and nothing whatever was said. It seems as if this is hospitality with capitol letters.

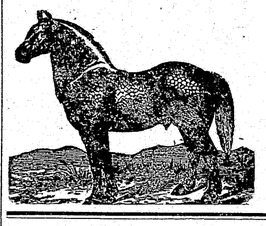

We were told by the Chamber of Commerce that if we would stay in Georgia we would be given outright fifty acres of good tillable farm land the only thing we had to do in order to get the deed, being to fence it and build some kind of a house on it. A good offer alright, but all the campers were going to Florida and get rich..

WATER BREAKS THE BACK

Somebody has figured out that a woman living on a certain farm in Maryland walks 440 miles a year—as far as from Chicago to Omaha—in her daily journeys between her kitchen door and the farm pump. Ignoring the question of expended energy which might be put to more profitable use, it is figured that the time this woman spends in her 440-mile annual pilgrimage between her hypothetical Chicago and her imaginary Omaha is easily worth $50—and for $50 a simple but efficient water supply system could be installed in this farm home. And $50 a year for several years would put in something elaborate in the way of farm water systems.

The first steps toward such labor-saving systems are pictured in a new U. S. Department of Agriculture film, "Turn on the Water," which has been made through the cooperation of the rural engineering specialists of the Bureau of Public Roads. The film aims to give a general idea of the need and the problems involved, and to point the interested farmer to more detailed sources of information. The need for such an effort is indicated by the department's statement that for every American farm possessing a modern system of water supply there are ten still using the old back-breaking methods.

ORIGINAL HAY MAKER

Man was not the originator of haymaking. The pika or cony, a little rodent, living in the mountainous regions of the West, has probably made hay for his own use for thousands of years. He cuts fine stemmed grasses, sedges, shrubs, and other plants, bundles them up and puts them away in sheltered places among rocks for curing. Because he eats it himself he is more particular than man and produces a more uniform, fragrant, green product.

Steam or boiling water is needed for proper sterilization of milk utensils. They should be exposed to a temerature of at least 205 degrees for 5 minutes. A pail or can may look clean and yet carry numberless bacteria which will hasten the souring of milk, cause bad flavor in butter or cheese, or spread contagion.

What shall the people inherit?—Isaiah 60:21.

NORWAY VICINITY

The crest of the hot wave swept over this section, Thursday of last week, with not much change from the 96 mark registered on Wednesday. Indoors the heat was intense, Thursday, with the mercury at 103 in one room at the shoe factory. Wind and rain storms some fifty miles south during the evening brought a little relief to this section. Stores handling cold refreshments were swamped with patronage.

Dr. Harry Watson and family of Haverhill, Mass., who are spending the annual vacation in Waterford, were in town, Friday.

Announcements have been received of the tenth annual reunion of students, who attended Gould's Academy in Bethel during the years 1888-9. Meeting will be held at Bethel, August 4. All will gather at the Academy at 11:30 a. m. and proceed to the place selected.

Fred M. Davis was in Lewiston, Monday, in the interests of his combination book of his travel in Canada, also a volume of his standard poems that is being published in that city. A large number of copies have already been sold by subscription.

Miss Minnie Libby of the Cottage St. Studio has bought the lot on which her building is located. She feels the price paid was enormous, but she "had to have it."

The first pullet's egg of the season was found last Friday, July 23, by Norman Goodwin at the Orchard Dairy Farm. He felt very proud over it.

Ai Twitchell has lost his flowing beard and we failed to recognize him.

Corner telephone poles are auto bruised. If doubted, look it up.

WAITING ROOM BUILDING NEXT NATIONAL BANK, NORWAY MAIN STREET

The Weary Club did a prosperous loafing business for five years. It was turned out of home by the building of the Norway National Block. This enterprising financial monopoly bought the old Noyes Block and the Wearies had its house torn down.

They suspended, but did not disband. It was a too useful and popular an institution in the community. Their earthly possessions, which were small, were stored in an attic and collective whittling was temporarily suspended.

Twenty-three feet frontage on Main St. was bought. The exact location of the old room. John Woodman and Henry Foster were detailed to build and F. E. Decoster to furnish the funds.

The foundation is in and the building contract signed. Chas. A. Frost, carpenter, is the builder. There was an agreed time limit, but Tim Heath had forty excuses and other jobs made delay. It will be built, but not finished at the stated time. This is as expected, but is not fatal.

The Wearies of old had no organization, by-laws, rules or regulations, but exhibited simply as a village convenience. The situation now changes as the club comes into the possession of real estate and an organization had to be formed. This was done last Saturday.

F. W. Sanborn was chosen president; Henry B. Foster, vice president; Frank E. Decoster, secretary and treasurer, with John A. Woodman, J. C. True, Garfield Walker, H. F. Sands and S. O. Jellerson, directors. The building committee is John A. Wooman and H. B. Foster with F. E. Decoster as finance getter.

It was decided to change the name from "The Weary Club" to the "Waiting Weary Whittlers." The directors and members are soon to meet and adopt by-laws.

Mr. Frost will get at the making of the home pretty soon, and on the arrival of cold weather it will be ready to occupy.

BAPTIST CHURCH BUILT AT OXFORD

One Hundred Years Ago

Editor Advertiser:

In reply to your query at the foot of Elden's article on The Cumberland and Oxford Canal, in the last issue, regarding a Baptist Church in Oxford village or Craigie's Mills, as it was then called, will say that a church of that denomination was built and society founded in 1826. It was the first church edifice built in that part of Hebron, now Oxford.

It was built by Deacon Cyrus Shaw, supposedly out of money obtained in a capital prize of $5,000, drawn by him, January 25, 1825, in a lottery for the building of the above canal, and to ease his mind for obtaining money that way.

It was burned February 10, 1845, and the denomination apparently perished in the fire that destroyed its church.

NEW HOMES FOR OLD

Announcement by bankers generally of an intention to withold funds from speculative building enterprises is a definite indication that the acute house shortage which followed the war is passed. It is estimated that 75 per cent of the investment in homes this year will be put into reconstruction of old buildings.

There are 20,697,204 homes in the United States, according to latest census figures. A large manufacturer of bathroom fixtures made a survey based on this report and found that a sufficient number of homes lack sanitary bathrooms to keep the entire bathroom fixture industry working at capacity for 22 years. This shows the tremendous amount of remodeling work to be done if the American standard of living is to be sustained and advanced.

The homes the old folks built are being renewed, improved in construction and beautified. The staggering annual loss in fires is being reduced each year as more frame residences are made fireproof.

HARBOR

Preparing for August Sale—Stuart Stanley Attending Wedding in Boston—Bensons Motored to Boston.

Mrs. G. H. Wentworth of East Conway and Miss Evelyn Thompson were guests at Roscoe Thompson's, Thursday.

Lesson for August 1

DELIVERANCE AT THE RED SEA

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 14:1-31.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is my strength and song and he is become my salvation.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Takes Care of the Children of Israel.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Israel Saved at the Red Sea.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How a Nation of Slaves Was Set Free.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Divine and Human Leadership.

I. Israel in Straitened Circumstances (vv. 1-12).

1. Going out of the land of Egypt (13:18).

The tenth stroke from the strong hand of the Almighty made Pharaoh willing to let Israel go. The Israelites went out from Egypt on their way to the promised land with a high hand. Through the land of the Philistines the journey would have been comparatively short, but God commanded them to turn from that way lest going through the land of the Philistines they would see war and desire to turn back to Egypt. The way of the wilderness was a longer route, but it had many valuable lessons for them. By this way they escaped the experiences of war which would have come to them at the hand of the Philistines, but they learned the crookedness and perverseness of their own hearts (Deut. 8:12).

2. Hemmed in (vv. 1-3).

At the Lord's direction they turned from their first course and were made to face a great difficulty. The Red sea was before them and mountains on either side. However, they should have been encouraged because the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of cloud to lead them the way and by night in a pillar of fire to give them light. He took not away the pillar of cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night (13:21, 22).

3. Pursued by Pharaoh (vv. 4-12).

The stricken Egyptians had now recovered from their sorrow, and perceiving the straitened circumstances of the Israelites they interpreted this to mean that Moses was unable to lead them out of their difficulty. Therefore they went in pursuit, hoping yet to prevent them from leaving the country.

II. The Miraculous Escape of the Israelites (vv. 13-22).

Though they were in a straitened condition they had no reason to fear, for the Lord had led them there. There seems to have been a twofold object in leading them into this particular place.

1. To strengthen the faith of the people. To be delivered from such circumstances would impress upon them anew the reality of the love and power of God. The people, as usual, displayed their unbelief and even censured Moses for leading them out of Egypt. Moses replied, "Fear ye not, stand still and see the salvation of the Lord." Standing still in such a trial is faith taking hold on God's promises. God said, "Wherefore criest thou unto Me? Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward." The lifting up of the rod simply served as something tangible upon which their faith could act. They were to go forward a step at a time without raising any question as to the outcome, for from the source from which came the command, came the power to obey.

2. To lay a snare for the overthrow of the Egyptians.

Those who will not heed the warning judgments of God may be allowed to go to their destruction under the presumption that the Almighty is helping them.

III. The Overthrow of the Egyptians (vv. 23-27).

Having seen the Israelites go across the sea dry shod, Pharaoh and his people madly pursued them. They insanely thought that they in their unbelief could follow in the wake of God's children. The Lord looked forth from the cloud and wrought confusion among the Egyptians. He not only looked upon them but took off their chariot wheels, which caused them to realize that God was fighting against them. He then directed Moses to stretch forth his rod and bring destruction upon the Egyptians.

IV. The Song of Triumph (15:1-21).

Standing on the other shore of the Red sea they could fittingly sing the song of triumph because of their miraculous deliverance and the overwhelming defeat of the Egyptians. They attributed it all to God. All self-consciousness and importance were left out. In a glad coming day, a similar but much larger company will sing the same song with an important addition, namely, the "Song of the Lamb." (Rev. 15:3).

DELIVERANCE AT THE RED SEA

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 14:1-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is my strength and song and he is become my salvation.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God Takes Care of the Children of Israel.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Israel Saved at the Red Sea.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How a Nation of Slaves Was Set Free.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Divine and Human Leadership.

I. Israel in Straitened Circumstances (vv. 1-12).

1. Going out of the land of Egypt (13:19).

The tenth stroke from the strong hand of the Almighty made Pharaoh willing to let Israel go. The Israelites went out from Egypt on their way to the promised land with a high hand. Through the land of the Philistines the journey would have been comparatively short, but God commanded them to turn from that way lest going through the land of the Philistines they would see war and desire to turn back to Egypt. The way of the wilderness was a longer route, but it had many valuable lessons for them. By this way they escaped the experiences of war which would have come to them at the hand of the Philistines, but they learned the crookedness and perverseness of their own hearts (Deut. 8:12).

2. Hemmed in (vv. 1-3).

At the Lord's direction they turned from their first course and were made to face a great difficulty. The Red sea was before them and mountains on either side. However, they should have been encouraged because the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of cloud to lead them the way and by night in a pillar of fire to give them light. FLY FISHERMAN'S PARADISE

OQUOSSOC ANGLERS' INDIAN ROCK ASSOCIATION, AT JUNCTION OF KENNEBAGO AND RANGELEY STREAMS. PRESENT AND PAST HISTORY AS REVEALED AND RECORDED BY OUR FISHING EXPERT

Indian Rock Camps were visited. Jas. Matherson, resident manager, ferried us over the river and showed us about. The stream may be 100 yards wide and a small boat was used. The regular ferry boat is full grown and will carry autos and trucks. Mr. Matherson was working in the hay field and responded promptly on the sounding of the horn.

The camps are the making of a real village and inaccessible to the public except by boat or ferry. Twenty or more houses with modern improvements located around "the Point," at the junction of Kennebago and Rangeley Streams.

"The Rock" is surrounded by water and can only be reached by a boat. It is the noted fishing place and has been since the beginning of civilization and history. It was discovered by the Indians and used by them until crowded out by pale faces. Thus came the name "Indian Rock." We did not step foot on it, but reserved the invitation for a future time when fishing conditions would be more favorable.

The Oquossoe Angling Association that was to be formed was the outgrowth of a fishing party to the Northern Maine Wilderness in June, 1869. The stop was made with C. T. Richardson, who had a camp here. There were eleven in the party, three of whom were from this state:

W. S. Badger, editor of the Maine Farmer, Augusta; Wm. P. Frye, Attorney General of Maine, and I. M. Cutler of Farmington, this state, and seven others were from New York City and one from Philadelphia. Mr. Richardson's camp, "Bald Eagle," was bargained for and he was to remain as caretaker. A charter was obtained from the Legislature in 1870 and this club as now exists organized.

From a manuscript pinned into a book, written by R. G. Allerton, descriptive of the fishing trip, are the following notes:

"Mr. Richardson operated this camp until 1868, when it passed to the Oquossoe Angling Association. The big main camp was built in 1869 and was occupied by Club members for the first time in September of that year. There were thirty members at first."

Another note is similarly attached:

"Mr. C. T. Richardson came to Indian Rick in April, 1862, and built his first log house. Later he built the 'Bald Eagle' between the Wharf and Bridge.

"Uncle F. Smith had a camp which Mr. Richardson bought The camp was built of slabs."

Mr. Richardson remained with the Rock Club, as it is locally called, during his active life. See picture and note on first page of this paper.

The book referred to is a prize and a curiosity combined. It bears title: "About Trout Fishing" and was written by R. G. Allerton, treasurer of the Goodyear India Rubber Company of New York, who was an enthusiastic angler, a good writer, with some sketching ability, as is shown in the book.

The sketch from memory, showing "the rock" and camps, the joining of the stream and the bear skin on the Page camp is good. There is represented four camps, Richardson, Clark, Page and Tompkins. The latter is a tent. The man on "the rock" with evident set boblines, fishing, is probably correct and in keeping with the method of catching trout that time. It shows the stream to be small and narrow. It was sketched before the building of the Upper Dam and the raising of the water.

"Pisecatorially yours, Geo. Shepard Page" shows smooth-faced young man as "Our President" with an explanatory note regarding his modesty and worthy qualities.

The volume is dedicated to: "my excellent friend and brother angler, George Shepard Page of Stanley, N. J., whose good example and Christian influence are keenly appreciated and with whom I have spent many delightful hours among the Sunday school children, and in the haunts of the noble trout of Maine. This little work is most affectionately dedicated. New York, October 1869—R. G. A."

Who wouldn't have blushed inwardly at such an expression of appreciation?

And, again, a "stock-cut" of a long tailed lamb appears as introducing "a lamb-page in order that we may be ever reminded that—

'Mary had a little lamb,
Its fleece was white as snow, etc. etc.'

For the remainder of this charming poem, consult Page on the Lamb published by Shepard." This outburst is followed by a picture of a diminutive sheep, labeled, "Mary's Lamb in Infancy."

The meaning of the above is unknown to present day readers, yet it did convey something to those who knew. No doubt of it!

This book contains a picture of the tank made to convey live trout from the Kennebago camps to Stanley, N. J. It was called Page's Rattlesnake Box and was sketched from memory by Mr. Allerton.

The most startling artistic example of illustrative sketching is a paged monogram, "R. G. A." It's cute, and labelled: "Original designs by the author—an ardent disciple of the good old Isaac." It cannot fail to wake the imagination and stir the enthusiasm of anyone who loves to fish!

Pinned into the book for safe keeping is a beautiful printed copy of Helen D. Findlay's painting "The Angler's Pride." It was made expressly for R. G. A. from a living Oquossoc Trout.

It seems that a Grand Trout Supper was given by Mr. Allerton on June 10th, 1869, at Lacawanna Hotel, C. T. Richardson, proprietor. The menu is printed in detail and the two trout served weighed 15 pounds and were caught by Mr. Allerton.

Those at the supper were:

F. G. Whitney, Massachusetts.
E. Rice, New York.
I. M. Cutler, Maine.
Wm. Maxwell, Pennsylvania.
H. F. Martin, New York.
A. R. McCoy, New Jersey.
S. Sands, Massachusetts.
R. J. Bailey, Pennsylvania.
R. G. Allerton, New York.

This sheet was an insert printed on pink tint enclosed with the usual red border.

This book is carefully housed in the office safe and the fly-leaf inscription is to F. A. Turner, Esq., with the compliments of Jno P. Rider, June, 1900. This is as near as we can make out the ugly scrawl of the donor. Mr. Turner, for many years, was the president of the Association. There are at present about 35 members of the Oquossoc Angling Association and with their families constitute a considerable of a settlement in the wilderness—if such it can be called.

STATE OF MAINE

County of Oxford, ss.

To the Honorable Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court next to be held at Paris, within and for the County of Oxford, on the second Tuesday of October, A. D., 1926.

Mary E. Parker, of Rumford, in said County of Oxford, respectfully petitions this Court and says: that she was married to Harry E. Parker, at Moncton, in the Province of New Brunswick, Canada, on March 11th, 1916, by Canon Sisam, a clergyman duly authorized to solemnize marriages; that they lived together as husband and wife at Portland, Maine, from November, 1921, till July, 1922, and at Naples, Maine, from July, 1922 till June 1923; that they have two children, Rose E. Parker, age six years, and Harry E. Parker, age five years; that your libellant has always conducted herself toward her said husband as a faithful true and affectionate wife; that the said libellee has been guilty of cruel and abusive treatment toward your said libellant; that being of sufficient ability and being able to labor and provide for her, the said libellee grossly and wantonly and cruelly refuses and neglects to provide suitable maintenance for your said libellant; that the said libellee has been guilty of adultery; that there is no collusion between your libellant and the said libellee to obtain a divorce; that his residence is unknown to your libellant and cannot be ascertained by reasonable diligence; wherefore she prays that a divorce may be decreed for the causes above set forth, and that she may have the care and custody of their minor children, Rose E. Parker, age 6 years, and Harry E. Parker, age 5 years, and your libellant further prays that the said libellee may be ordered to pay such sum or sums for the care and support of their said minor children as to the Court may seem just and proper.

Dated at Rumford, Maine, June 15th, 1926.

MARY E. PARKER, Libellant.

STATE OF MAINE

County of Oxford, ss. June 15th, 1926.

Personally appeared the above named Mary E. Parker and made oath that the foregoing allegation as to the residence of the libellee is true.

Selectmen of the Town of Mexico, Me.

STATE OF MAINE

(Seal)
COUNTY OF OXFORD, ss.
Board of County Commissioners, May Session, 1926; held by adjournment July 20th, 1926.

Upon the Foregoing Petition, satisfactory evidence having been received that the petitioners are responsible, and that inquiry into the merits of their application is expedient, IT IS ORDERED, that the County Commissioners meet at the Ralph Kidder Place, so-called, in said Mexico, August 31st, next, at ten of the clock A. M., and thence proceed to view the route mentioned in said petition; immediately after which view, a hearing of the parties and their witnesses will be had at some convenient place in the vicinity, and such other measures taken in the premises as the Commissioners shall judge proper. And it is further ORDERED, that notice of the time, place, and purpose of the Commissioners' meeting aforesaid be given to all persons and corporations interested, by causing attested copies of said petition and of this order thereon to be served upon the Clerk of the Town of Mexico and also posted up in three public places in said town and published three weeks successively in the Norway Advertiser, a newspaper printed at Norway in said County of Oxford, the first of said publications, and each of the other notices, to be made, served and posted, at least thirty days before said time of meeting, to the end that all persons and corporations may then and there appear and shew cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petitioners should not be granted.

Attest: DONALD B. PARTRIDGE, Clerk.

A true copy of said Petition and Order of Court thereon. 30-32

Are you fully insured?

Once a year, if you are wise, you will check up on your property risks in relation to the insurance protection you carry.

A rise in property values should be reflected in your property insurance. Additions to your household furniture and equipment, perhaps, are not represented in your present coverage on this investment.

We shall be glad to help you take an accurate inventory of your insurable risks and to suggest dependable and economical policies.

Owner—"Same old house that's stood there 15 years; what you notice is our new roof."*

*A roof of Barrett Shingles adds colorful beauty to any house

Your neighbors' eyes are on your roof

Have you ever thought how your house looks to other people—friends, neighbors, visitors? Do they glance it over, and say to themselves "a little shabby" or "how unattractive"? That's when a colorful, artistic roof would help tremendously.

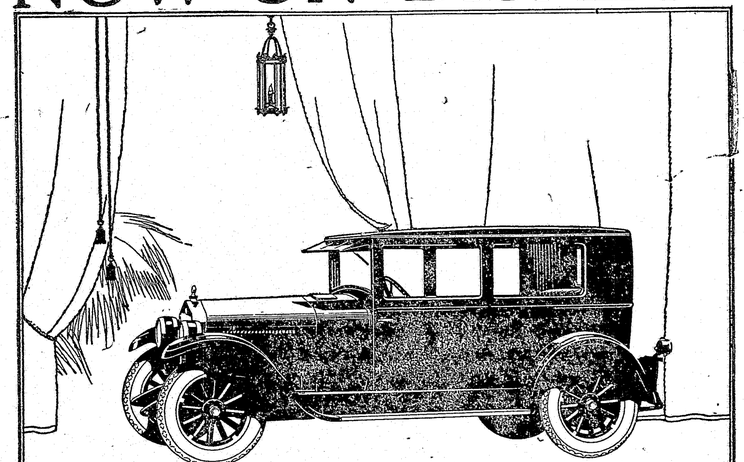

We've been selling roofings for years. We know the roofing that will last—that will beautify your home. We're talking about Barrett Shingles.

They're fire-proof, rot-proof and rust-proof. Come in and see them.

"At Your Door"

Standard Equipment Includes:
Automatic Windshield Cleaner, Rear View Mirror, Transmission Lock (built-in), Radiator Shutters, Moto-Meter, Combination Stop and Tail Light.

Many of these advantages you will recognize at a glance. But you will have higher appreciation of their meaning when you know that a plant of 18 acres which with equipment approximated a cost of $10,000,000, was first built and that special machinery had to be designed, to make possible the New Coach your dealer is now showing.

It is all steel, bolted and riveted, and so rigid that squeaks, rattles and distortions, are as unlikely as in a steel building. Doors are so hung that a man may hang on an open door while the car is being driven over rough roads, without springing it out of true.

And it is so designed and constructed as to permit the use in a totally new manner of a high baked enamel, most lustrous and lasting finish.

There has been constant improvement in the chassis from the first Essex shipped. And only by the accumulation of the resources, the information, experience, and the skill that have resulted from the building of 350,000 Essex "Sixes" was it possible to create this car which we ask you to inspect and to drive as the best looking, best value, best Essex ever built.

REACHED FIFTY-EIGHTH BIRTHDAY—CROPS COMING ALONG WELL—HAYING COMMENCED—POLITICAL CONTESTS—EXCITEMENT REGARDING JANE BULLIN.

Edited by Don C. Seitz

June 3, 1855—Sunday. Cloudy and some rainy. Yesterday there was a little rain, just enough to lay the dust, the first for several weeks. May has been the dryest month ever known for May. Grass is generally small and backward, especially in the lower farms on clay soil. Corn has come up well and grain looks well. The water in the Pond is 12 inches below top of Dam and falling. The prospect is now better for a good season for crops than one week ago.

June 17—Just 58 years old on Sunday. Very pleasant day. Water in the mill pond nearly to the top of dam, having risen 8 inches the past week. L. Crockett and wife, Mrs. Joseph Bennett and Mr. Moody and wife are here, having come over to settle with Mr. Whitman for railroad stock belonging to N. Bennett's estate.

June 24—Sunday and fair. So far June has been pretty wet. May was remarkably dry. Corn is backward, but other crops are looking well. The water in mill pond even with top of dam. Corn is worth here, common, $1.50; in Portland, yellow $1.18. Flour from $9 to $12.00. Preparations are being made to celebrate the coming 4th, at S. Paris by the Friends of Freedom in a splendid style. The car ran into new Station at Portland last Monday for the first time.

July 1—Sunday. Very fine weather and warm and has been for nearly a week and everything grows finely and a plenty of wet. Preparations are being made for a great celebration at South Paris the 4th. The Portland Rifle Guards will be at this place and Paris and join the celebration. It is said that Judge Shepley has given a decision at Augusta, that Justices of the Peace have no jurisdiction in Liquor cases and that a conviction can only be had in the Supreme Court. Judge Appleton dissented; there is a good deal of excitement in regard to it.

July 8—Sunday. Some cloudy—last night quite a rain. Water in mill pond nearly up to top of Dam and no lack of water anywhere The celebration at S. Paris was a great affair, 6 or 7,000 persons were present and a plenty of speakers. Neal Dow was present and made a speech. Mr. Patterson from Missouri also was present and made a speech. The Wild Cat meeting on Paris Hill was rather small. The procession number'd 280 all told. I have been very unwell for 2 or 3 day. Was taken in Portland on Thursday last and came home in the evening train. Mr. E. L. Knight came up with me. The complaint was nausea at the stomach and dizziness in the head. Geo. and wife have gone to Island Pond and will return tomorrow.

July 15—Sunday. Very fine weather. Quite unwell myself, not able to attend meeting. Aunt Bennett is at our house and quite smart. Had a smart turn of the choleramorbus the past week. Today Joshua B. Crockett's child is buried—funeral at the U. meeting house. People began haying last week. Our folks will begin this week.

July 29—Sunday, and cloudy and but little prospect of hay weather today. We have four tons of hay out in the field. The weather the past week has been poor for haying. Mr. Palmer has commenc'd in repairing and altering Grist Mill. Crops will be abundant if weather is favorable for securing and taking care of them. The Station House at Portland is nearly finish'd and the Engine House at Gorham is well commenc'd. Political Parties are vigorously in the field and the contest in this State will be severe between the Morrill Party and Judge Well's Party, the first for temperance and the last for rum. The first for Freedom and the last for Slavery.

August 5—Sunday. Very fine weather and has been since last Tuesday, and excellent hay weather—before last Tuesday the weather was bad for getting hay. Our haying is about one-half done. The crop is very fair—nothing great.

August 12—Sunday and very fine weather. Finish'd haying yesterday and middling crop. Grain will answer to cut the present week. Corn looks finely; potatoes also. The coming election will be a heated one. Judge Wells, the rum candidate for Gov., will speal at Academy Hall tomorrow, according to notice. I have been to Montreal the past week. Staid there Wednesday night and return'd to I. Pond on Thursday and to Portland, Friday. This morning there is quite an excitement here in regards to Jane Bullin, suppos'd to have made away with herself—being accus'd of stealing from Mrs. R. Crockett. The people of the village are now in pursuit. It is rumor'd that she bought poison at the apothecary.

SANBORN'S SPECIAL COLUMN

Liston P. Evans, president of the Maine Press Association, was a guest of New Hampshire last week. He traveled with the visiting editors and brought into Maine a carload of souvenir handouts of Granite State enterprizes.

The whetstone from the Pike Mfg. Co. of Pike, N. H. was sent to us. President Evans wastes no time whittling and we do. He knew where the "sharpener" would be appreciated. Thanks!

There are no better in the world than those made at Pike, N. H. where the business has been more or less continuous for over a hundred year.

We recall the days and adventures of "Old Whetstone" Palmer selling native rock scythe stones on the streets of Laconia, N. H. and getting mixed up with the police and police courts.

We got home from "Mother Scott's", Quimby Pond, Rangeley Lake Tuesday. We made a seven day stop there. Caught 83 trout and didn't work overtime. This is our 9th annual visit. Trout were as numerous, and as pleased to see us as in the past.

Somehow this is the most wonderful pond in Maine. Don't understand it and can't explain it except to repeat Jim Scott's favorite expression: "There are millions of 'em there!"

At times the trout come to a fly so savagely and in such numbers as to lead us to believe Mr. Scott states it correctly: "Millions of 'em."

We were there seven days. The first two days we didn't get a fish. A few were taken however each day. Two of the following days trout were feeding all day and consequently being caught. Six fish only can be killed and fishing closes at sundown. Mr. Scott has seven boats and a canoe and some of them are in use every day and at times all of them are out. Most of the fishing is done in the evening. The women battled with the black flies and field strawberries. A bushel of the later were caught and canned. Twenty pounds of sugar was used and a ten quart agate kettle bought at Oquossoc. Canning of field strawberries was a great success. The women were Mr. C. E. Osgood, mother of the Advertiser manager, Ralph S. Osgood, and a sister of the writer, and Mrs. Cora E. Twitchell. Mother Scott of the camp assisted at home.

The actual time spent fishing—casting a fly—was 28 hours, three fish per hour. At Moosehead we got one fish for four hours casting. The average weight of the later was 2 1-2 pounds while the Quimby Pond trout was less than 3-4 pounds each, a few, however exceeded a pound. We killed 27 of the 83 taken.

H. J. Jones, owner of the G. T. Steam Laundry, Rochester, N. H., has invited us to call Of course we accept, with thanks. Wonder if he is the Jones who at one time was superintendent of the Oxford Light Co? The initials are the same, but that Mr. Jones, when last heard from, was in Austin, Texas, running an electric railroad.

NO PICNIC

"Getting out a newspaper is no picnic. If we print jokes folks say we are silly—if we don't print 'em they say we are serious. If we publish original matter they say we lack variety—if we publish things from other papers they say we are too lazy to write. If we don't go to church we are wicked—if we do go we are a hypocrite. If we stay in the office we ought to be out hustling for news—if we rustle for for news we are not attending business at the office. If we wear old clothes we are slovenly—if we wear new clothes we are a dude. What in thunderation is a poor editor to do, anyhow? Just as like as not, someone will say we swiped this from some other newspaper. So we did."—Exchange

Make a cake with four eggs! The housewife utters an exclamation of horror for how can she afford to do it when eggs are $.60 per dozen. It certainly is a distressing fact, for our mothers could use all the eggs they wanted and only paid $.10 to $.15 per dozen. The price of eggs varies perhaps, more than the price of any other foodstuff. The price of grain and eggs varies greatly, but in the same proportion. Another factor influencing price is the seasonal production, the price rising with low production.

Eggs Compared With Other Foods

Foods of like energy vary widely in their cost. One egg costs $.05. The same amount of energy is received from three-fourths of a grapefruit at $.09; 1 3-4 cup tomatoes at $.15; one-half glass of milk at $.01 1-2; one-half cup of cream of wheat at less than $.01 and a slice of meat loaf 4''x6''x1-8'' at $.03. It is interesting to know that only a few weeks ago people in certain parts of Aroostook were paying $.75 per dozen for eggs, while they were receiving $.70 per barrel for their potatoes. The above figures show that potatoes, cereals, and tougher cuts of meat may be served as cheaper sources of energy, than eggs.

But energy is not the only measure of food value. McCallum, Simmons, and Parsons, authorities in nutrition work find "the best proteins for support of growth are those in milk and eggs." The mineral salts serve as material for formation of body tissue, containing those elements necessary for construction of muscle, bone and blood. This factor explains why eggs are used in diets for anemias and tubercular patients. The minerals and proteins help to build up the tissue broken down by the disease and minerals in addition strengthen the blood and aid in formation of hemoglobin. Eggs, especially the yolks are good sources of vitamines.

Cooking And Serving Eggs

There are numerous ways of cooking eggs, alone or in combination with other food materials. In cookery, eggs serve to improve flavor, color and texture of such foods as cakes, while in custards and creams they act as a thickening agent. Beating of eggs causes formation of air bubbles, which added to batters and doughs expands and makes a lighter product. Sponge cake is an example of the latter. The stiffly beaten whites are used for icings, meringues and candies. The use of baking powder has diminished the use of eggs as a leavener, which fact is valuable with the present prices. Since eggs are rich in protein they may be combined with flour, starch, sugar, butter and cream and a food prepared which more nearly meets the body requirements than single ingredients, even milk.

Use of Fresh Eggs

The housewife often thinks she can use only fresh eggs. Unless she gets them from her own hens or from a neighbor's, she is not sure that they are fresh. The old test—fresh eggs sink in a pail of water while old ones float—is as good as it is simple. Eggs will not keep unless put in a cool place.

Preserve Eggs

It is a growing custom for the housewife to lay in a large supply of eggs when the price is low. Eggs for preservation should be as fresh as possible, i. e. not over 24 hours old and should not have remained on the nest several hours. It is necessary that the eggs are clean and have white shells. The best method of preservation is to keep them immersed in a solution of water glass. The directions for making and using are found on each package. The solution made seals the pores of the shell, preventing any organisms from entering. If this process is properly done, there should be no apparent change in weight, composition or flavor for many months. This fact has been proven true in many cases. At present eggs used in the University Practice House were preserved last June. They are used in preparing all kinds of egg dishes. Some people say they have difficulty in beating the white, stiff. If they are properly preserved, there will be no trouble for in the practice house they use the whites for meringues and whole eggs are scrambled or used for egg-nogs. However, there will be trouble if the eggs are not strictly fresh when put into the water glass. Some of the old recipes containing several eggs may be brought forth, some new ones tried, then when the price appears to be lowest, some may be preserved for the future scarcity.

Spanish Eggs

1 slice onion
1 c. tomatoes
1 T. butter
6 eggs
1 t. salt
¼ t. pepper

Rub onion over inside of a frying pan. Cut tomato in small pieces. Melt butter in frying pan. Add tomato, and cook for five minutes. Beat eggs well and add to tomato. Add seasoning, cook slowly, stirring constantly till eggs thicken. Pour into hot dish and serve at once.

Scalloped Eggs

3 hard boiled eggs
1 pint white sauce
¾ c. chopped cold meat
¾ c. buttered cracker crumbs

Chop eggs finely. Sprinkle bottom of greased baking dish with crumbs. Cover with one-half the eggs, egg with sauce, sauce with meat. Repeat. Cover with remaining crumbs. Place in oven and bake until crumbs are brown. Ham is the best meat to use, though chicken, veal of fish may be used.

Boston Favorite Cake

2-3 c. butter or substitute
1 7-8 c. sugar
4 eggs
1 c. milk
3½ c. flour
½ t. salt
5 t. baking powder

This recipe makes two loaves or one-half the mixture may be baked in individual tins.

Eggs a la Goldenrod

3 hard boiled eggs
1 T. butter
1 T. flour
1 c. milk
½ t. salt
⅛ t. pepper
5 slices toast

Make a thin white sauce with butter, flour, milk and seasonings. Separate the yolks from the whites of eggs. Cut up whites finely and add them to the sauce. Cut the toast in halves. Arrange in platter and pour over the sauce. Force the yolks through a potato ricer, and sprinkle over the top.

Plans for Reunion—Crystal Lake Popular for Bathing—Auto Accidents—Briggs-Ward Marriage.

Plans are being made for a reunion of Bridgton Academy students who attended during the years 1896-97 to 1902-'03 inclusive, to be held at the Academy on the afternoon and evening of August 21, 1926. This includes all students who attended, also all the teachers during the principalship of Mr. Spratt.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Caswell and Mrs. Jack of Philadelphia motored to Portland, Saturday, for the day. Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Arthur Smith and Emily Caswell were in Lewiston one day recently.

Mrs. D. E. Caswell is ill at her summer home, Lone Star Cottage, and has a nurse in charge.

The beach at Crystal Lake is a most popular spot for bathing, one afternoon last week over sixty were counted, including many Harrison people and visitors.

Ruby Pitts has been spending several weeks with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jackson, at North Waterford.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Green of Gardner, Mass., are spending the week end with his mother, Mrs. Green and other relatives in town.

Glenn Andrews and Louis King of Norway, students at Bates College, are employed at the Harrison Hotel. Phoebe and Lucy Cobb and Mrs. Rex Martin of Norway are also employed in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel L. Pitts are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, born at North Bridgton.

Mrs. R. L. Davis has returned from St. Barnabas Hospital at Portland and is at her home on Waterford road.

Wallace Caswell has built a fine garage at his new home on Main Street. The building will hold two cars and has a fine workshop upstairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Catland (Melba Stuart) have returned from Pittsfield, Mass., and are with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Stuart, for the present.

A large party motored Sunday, to Higgins Beach, where they enjoyed a delightful day and picnic. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Edgecomb, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thomes and family of Bridgton, Harry Smith, Muriel Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Kneeland, Phil Spaulding, Elsie Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Green of Gardner, Mass.

Work at the S. H. Ricker & Co. machine shop was resumed Monday, after several weeks' recess.

As Lewis Merrill and E. P. Stearns were returning from Hobson's Pavilion at North Waterford, Saturday evening, their car ran into the ditch and overturned, pinning both men beneath it. Mr. Stearns cut his way out with a jackknife and rushed to the nearest house for assistance. Mr. Merrill was relieved from his trying position and neither man was seriously injured, only lamed and sore. The car was badly damaged, but it was certainly a miraculous escape.

BLISS BUSINESS COLLEGE

That Bliss Business College, Lewiston, Maine, is Maine's Greatest School of Business, is evidenced by the fact of its high grade courses of study and its faculty of University and College trained men and women. For a great many years this institution operated as a very successful business college and its graduates are to be found in responsible positions in nearly every state in the union.

Two years ago four new courses of college grade were introduced to the already broad curriculum and new instructors were added to the teaching staff. Specialization is now one of the big features of this educational institution and the student who enters may feel assured that he is intrusting his education to a school which not only offers the very finest under the most advanced methods, but one also in position to fulfill all obligations imposed on such an institution.

Besides regular commercial college courses, this school has to offer Certified Public Accountancy, (Walton Course), Business Administration, Secretarial Science, a two-year Normal Course, National Banking and a General Course in Wholesale and Cost Accounting.

The regular faculty is composed of men and women from Bates College, Columbia University, Colby College, Simmons College, LaSalle Institute, and Lebanon University.

A lecture course made up of five subjects, each given by a different lecturer, is a part of this year's program.

Full particulars will be mailed to any young man or woman sufficiently interested to write asking for an outline of courses and general information.
